Ambassador Update

Institute for Discipleship

Ambassadors nurture the life of the Institute for Discipleship through their prayers, advocacy, and financial support, advancing the Kingdom of God worldwide.

November 2024: Support

Several years ago I was talking to someone about how we spend our time and resources.

“The problem is that my choices aren’t between the good and the bad,” she told me. “My choices are between the good and the good.”

As I’ve gotten older I’ve seen again and again how true this is. How can I do the most good, for the most people, with time and resources that are often limited?

I’m grateful that you have decided that the Institute for Discipleship possesses the qualities that let you do the most good for the most people. As an Ambassador, you are:

- Providing an opportunity for people to be in a Christian small group study who would otherwise not be able to participate for a wide variety of reasons. This addresses the need for stronger lay and clergy discipleship. (BeADiscipleApp.com)
- Providing top continuing education to people working in a wide range of ministries. These persons are helping their local congregations be more effective serving the needs in their communities. This addresses the needs for stronger lay and clergy leadership. (BeADisciple.com)

- Supporting talented and committed students from outside the United States who have limited financial resources attend Southwestern College. This meets the need for more cross-cultural understanding in the body of Christ. (Bishop Scholars)
- Supporting a visiting scholar in religion with their research and launching them into a career as a college or seminary professor. This meets the need for high quality religious instruction in higher education. (Visiting Scholars)
- Supporting our efforts to build up youth and young adults who desire to be Christian leaders. This meets the need for a new generation of Christian leaders to flourish. (The Summit)

If these needs and our responses still resonate with you and you still believe the work we do is the good you want to see in the world, I encourage you to continue supporting the work of the Institute. As an Ambassador, you are making our “good” possible.

I thank God for your faithful support.

Steve Wilke
Executive Director

P.S. We are progressing toward our goal of having 100 ambassadors!
